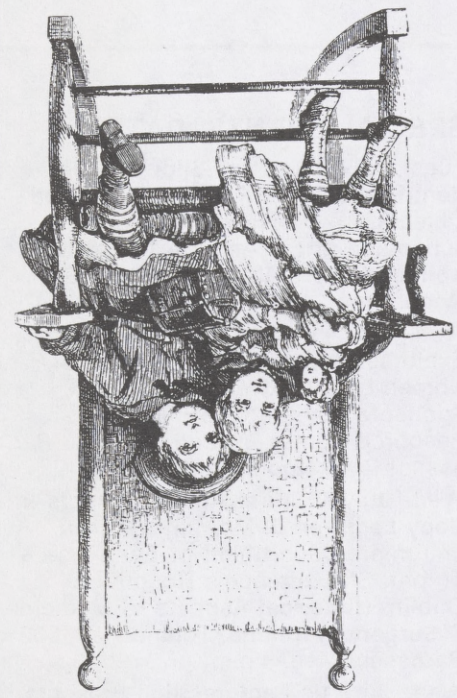
New UCSF Children's Medical Center



The first phase in opening the new UCSF Children's Medical Center took place in June when pediatric patients on the sixth floor of Moffitt Hospital moved into new facilities in Long Hospital.

The majority of rooms on the new sixth-floor unit are private or two-bed rooms, and all have been designed to make the hospital stay for children and their families as warm, cheerful, pleasant, and comfortable as possible, according to Melvin M. Grumbach, MD, chair of the Department of Pediatrics. The new rooms include sleep chairs and sofa beds for parents.

With the opening of 6-Long, the sixth floor of Moffitt Hospital will undergo extensive renovation, including expansion of the Pediatric Clinical Research Center to meet program needs. Long-range plans for the sixth-floor Long/Moffitt complex include expansion and modernization of the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit, an adolescent-age unit, a children's playroom, and a sleep room with kitchen and laundry facilities. Also planned is modernization of the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit on the 15th floor of Moffitt.

When finished, the UCSF Children's Medical Center will function as a complete infant, children's, and adolescent specialty hospital within the UCSF Hospitals and Clinics complex.

Psychiatric Help to City's Elderly

San Francisco's elderly and severely disabled received more than $1 million of badly needed mental health care from a three-year project managed by UCSF.

Using new Medicare funds, the project provided psychiatric help to 312 elderly and disabled persons on the city's west side. The services were expanded at the same time that city and state budget cuts forced most other area mental health services to reduce care and staffs.

The city also agreed to renovate the Sunset Day Treatment Center—which serves some 280 patients a month—as a result of the need for care that was demonstrated by the project.

The new funds came from a Medicare Mental Health Demonstration Project set up in San Francisco's District Five Community Mental Health Center. One of 42 facilities selected by the US Department of Health and Human Services from 4,000 clinics across the country, the center serves the Richmond, Sunset, Ocean View, and Ingleside districts.

The demonstration project is a response to harsh criticism that Medicare discriminates against its mentally ill beneficiaries because of its extremely limited coverage of mental health services, said Clifford Attkisson, PhD, director of the project.

Results from the project will offer the first hard data to Congress on whether there are cost benefits to expanding mental health coverage to Medicare patients.

Ammann to Carry Olympic Torch

Arthur J. Ammann, director of the UCSF Pediatric Clinical Research Center, was chosen the lucky UCSF representative to carry the Olympic Torch in the relay run preceding this year's summer games. UCSF is sponsoring one kilometer of the 19,000-kilometer run, which began in New York and ends in Los Angeles. Ammann will run the UCSF part of the relay around July 16. Proceeds from the UCSF drawing will benefit the San Francisco Boy's Club.

The Olympic Torch drawing was part of Chauncey Leake Day held in late May, attended by some 800 neighbors, faculty, staff, and students.

UCSF Medal to Curry, Gallo, Sampson

Three prominent citizens have been given the highest honor of the campus—the UCSF Medal—in recognition of their contributions to health education, community health care, and public service. Recipients are Francis J. Curry, MD, Ernest Gallo, and John J. Sampson, MD.

• A UCSF clinical professor of medicine, family and community medicine, and dentistry, Curry joined the faculty in 1976 after retiring from his post as director of the SF Department of Public Health. Curry, with Father Alfred Boeddeker, is responsible for establishing St. Anthony's Dining Room and Clinic, which feeds and medically treats thousands of poor and hungry people of the Tenderloin district every month.

• Gallo is chair and director of the Ernest and Julio Gallo Winery in Modesto. A long-time supporter of UCSF, in 1982 Gallo gave $3 million to establish the Ernest Gallo Clinic and Research Center at SFGH to study the effects of alcohol on the human brain and nervous system.

• Sampson has been a member of the UCSF clinical faculty since 1924. Chief of the UCSF cardiac clinics from 1947 to 1974, he is former president of the American Heart Association, the California Heart Association, and the InterAmerican Congress of Cardiology.

Congressional Panel Visits Child Care Center

A congressional committee was on campus in mid-June to hold a hearing on the subject of child care and to conduct a site visit of the UCSF Child Care/Study Center, which was selected by the panel because of its model work-site program and its academic use.

The hearing by the House of Representatives Select Committee on Children, Youth, and Families was chaired by Representative George Miller (D-Contra Costa), and discussed child care options, after-school "latch-key" children, and child abuse in care facilities.

An Assembly committee on new technologies also was on campus in late June to hold a hearing on the future of the biotechnology industry in California. Chaired by Assemblyman Samuel Farr (D-Santa Cruz/Monterey), the hearing featured speakers from UCSF and UC-Berkeley, including UCSF Chancellor Julius Krevans, who also was a witness at the child care hearing.

Parking Lot Construction Begins

Construction of the expanded west-side parking lot on Fourth Avenue and Kirkham Street behind the School of Dentistry has begun. The project will be done in several phases to keep to a minimum the temporary reduction in existing parking facilities. Approximately 45 spaces, however, will be lost during the year-long construction.

In order to mitigate the effect of these losses on parking for patients who use that area, several measures are being taken to get faculty, staff, and students to use vanpools, carpools, or bus clubs, instead of driving cars to campus. Those who must drive to campus are being urged to park in the Millberry Union garage, where stack parking might be necessary.

In addition, beginning July 2 public parking rates in the garage and the fee lots near Fourth and Kirkham will be as follows: first hour $1, 1-2 hours $2, 2-3 hours $3, 3-6 hours $4, 6-7 hours $5, daily maximum $6.

For further information about the construction, contact Al Aronson at 666-5343.

New Toxic-Info Center and Hotline

A new Toxic-Info Center and 24-hour hotline, 800-233-3360, have been established at the SF Bay Area Regional Poison Control Center at SFGH. Funded by the Department of Health and Human Services Community Toxins Unit, the new center provides health officials, physicians, and emergency personnel around the state with information on the health effects of toxic substances in the environment.

Kent R. Olson, MD, director of both the new Toxic-Info Center and the Poison Center, says that the center can provide information on potential health hazards from chemical spills, water and food supply contamination, fires, radiation exposure, industrial accidents, and toxic waste disposal.

Although the Toxic-Info Center is designed primarily for use by medical and emergency personnel, it also can provide the general public with health information on environmental toxins.
